

Best TWENTIETH-CENTURY FINDS

THE PBI AWARDS

With a name like The Silver Fund, one would logically expect to find all things silver. While it's true that the Worth Avenue gallery stocks important silver pieces by Georg Jensen, Jean Puiforcat, and others, we are obsessed with its other fine wares: twentieth-century furniture and lighting. We've found ourselves coveting a 1970s Venini cascading chandelier with clear and green crystals, a pair of Milo Baughman armchairs in lemon yellow, and a Pierre Cardin end table with a cubist "cage" base. With so many collectors in Palm Beach, the pieces are snapped up fast—but are always replaced by new treasures that make the hunt such exquisite torture. Enthusiasts of twentieth-century art and design, you've been warned.
